Journal Entry – Week 6

This week I had an interesting and busy week to say the least. I started my week with CHCI (Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute) training. On Tuesday, I went to the office but got the opportunity to leave my regular schedule for an hour. CHCI met again, and we all had the opportunity to meet with Congresswoman Veronica Escobar. Many of the participants had amazing questions to ask. During this meeting I noticed the passion the Congresswoman Veronica Escobar had towards many of the issues happening now.

Overall, this week was full of knowledge. I will remember this week dearly.

Below you will find pictures I took at the conference room where my virtual meetings took place, along with a screenshot tweet of Congresswoman Veronica Escobar profile account.

Thursday-----

On Thursday, I also had left a side my duties at the office for an hour to join a meeting with Marco A. Davis who is president of CHCI and CEO of the institution. Throughout the weeks Marco was meeting with about 8 students and this week was my opportunity to join the meeting. I learned a lot about many different issues and learned about personal experience working the President Obama.
